Piggy, Chinook and Coho set out on the trail that led towards their home. Each guinea pig had a bundle of daisies to carry.

"I need help!" cried Coho. "I _____ carry all of these daisies."

"You _____ have picked so many," scolded Piggy.

"Why _____ you leave some behind?" suggested Chinook.

"Then we will be able to move faster."

"I _____ have picked so many if I had known how heavy they would be," whimpered Coho.

They continued along the trail for a little while longer when all of a sudden a rabbit jumped out on the path.

"Those daisies look yummy," said Stanley. "Why _____ you give me some and I'll let you pass."

Coho gladly gave the rabbit two of her daisies and was happy to have a lighter load to carry.

"I _____ need those ones anyway," said Coho.

The three friends hurried along the trail towards home.
